

Human Rights

Koskie Minsky has earned a reputation as a leading firm regarding equity issues and the interpretation and application of human rights legislation. The Labour Lawyers at Koskie Minsky regularly advise clients on the requirements under both federal and provincial Human Rights legislation, and assist in drafting, managing or challenging workplace policies.

We regularly appear on behalf of clients before human rights tribunals at both the federal and provincial levels. When requested, our lawyers conduct or assess investigations where there are allegations of harassment and other violations of human rights. This includes designing, implementing or critically analyzing effective complaint investigation processes.